

ELECTION BOARD.

A Special Concerning the Work of Tabulating the Counties.

MANY VISITORS IN FRANKFORT.

Governor Bradley Goes Before the Board and Denounces the Lying Newspaper Correspondents—Interesting Notes Jotted Down.

Frankfort, Dec. 5, 1899.

SPECIAL TO THE PRESS.

The work of the State Election Board has progressed so far that when it adjourned at 4 o'clock the list of 119 counties had been worked through and tabulated except 11 counties, about which some question was raised. These eleven include Christian and Hopkins. Wherever there was any shadow of an opening for argument on any point the county was passed to be considered after the completion of the tabulation of all counties that were allowed to come up without objection by the Goebel men.

In the case of Christian the reason of passing the county was that the certificate, or rather statement and protest of the County Board, giving their "reasons" for not counting the vote of Hopkinsville precinct No. 1, which paper, however, states the vote cast for the various candidates in that precinct which was excluded in this certificate of the county vote—this paper was not the original but only a copy, and the matter was held up until the original could be found. It is understood that the original paper is now in possession of the board and will be presented tomorrow.

In the case of Hopkins, the now notorious letter of protest, was the only thing submitted in connection with the original certificate. No affidavits were submitted and the attorneys for Goebel said they knew of none that it gave a chance for argument and the attorneys for Taylor permitted it to pass without objection in order to save time.

The board adjourned at 4 o'clock to meet in the Senate chamber in the morning at 10 o'clock to hear arguments on the 11 counties passed, Judge Pryor and Capt. Ellis suggested that the attorneys submit their objections to the several counties briefly in writing so as to expedite the discussion. The attorneys for Goebel were not altogether pleased at this suggestion, but acquiesced with as good grace as possible. Then came the question again as to custody of the records. McCreary, for Goebel, moved that the Secretary of State be instructed to deliver the certificates and papers in the 11 counties under consideration to Judge Hargis, of unsavory fame, at the Capital Hotel—Goebel's headquarters—tonight, so that his attorneys could consider. Secretary Finley and Attorney Wilson objected on the grounds that the law did not permit the Secretary of State to allow the papers to go out of his office and suggested that attorneys for both sides could come to the Secretary of State's office tonight and make the examination. Judge Pryor agreed to this and it was so decided. In closing the session Judge Pryor said the principal question to be discussed was "whether the Board could go behind the returns." Capt. Ellis put it in a little different language and said the question was "whether the Board could consider the supplementary reports or must confine itself to the original certificates only." It is thought that this question will be discussed first in the morning before any county is taken up.

Upon arrival of the Courier-Journal today with the false and sensational story about the troops and armed men being here and that Governor Bradley was getting these men here to use force in Gen. Taylor's behalf. Governor Bradley went in before the Board and denied the story and denounced in his own vigorous way, the lying newspaper correspondents who are thus playing with incendiary stories.

NOTES.

Secretary Finley refused to receive as a part of the returns from Jefferson the half-bushel of type-written records and newspaper clippings that was sent up—largely consisting of Green Street affidavits. The Secretary had had the porter to remove the cumbersome pile after it was left on his table. Judge Hargis didn't like it and asked if there was any objection to having the stuff brought in. Attorney A. E. Wilson said there was none, that Mr. Hargis could carry in anything he pleased—a carpet bag or any old thing.

A gentleman today, using Proctor Knott's expression said the handling of the Kentucky vote before the State Board under the Goebel law was "like using the devil and trying the case in hell."

Courtney Chennault, secretary of the State Board, always pronounces Frank Pasteur's name "Pasteur" with emphasis on the "teer."

A lawyer of some note said today, making a comparison of the legal talent arrayed on the two sides, said that Hon. A. E. Wilson and Helm Bruce backed up by Gen. Taylor, Judge Pratt, Judge Holt and the other eminent lawyers who are all the time busy digging up points of law covering every phase of the emergency, would be better than any group of attorneys "look like 90 cents."

Goebel's attorneys are Mr. McCreary, Judge Hargis, R. Frank Peake, Col. Bennett H. Young and Willard Mitchell of incendiary speech fame—he would kill "all the white Republicans."

Capt. W. T. Ellis is clearly the strongest personality on the State Board.

A group that attracted some attention at the dinner table today was made up of William Goebel, Mr. Poyntz, Judge Pryor, Joe Hinkle, R. Frank Peake, Willard Mitchell and Graham Vreeland of the Courier-Journal, who had incurred the disfavor of Gov. Bradley by his misrepresentations.

Ollie James made a speech yesterday in behalf of Anne Gayle, the nominee of the Goebel men for Congress. The expression could be heard, "I didn't hear the speech, but I'll bet it was incendiary."

Judge Dempsey, A. D. Sisk and R. B. Bradley are at Hopkins county Democrats here but others will probably arrive tomorrow.

It is not known whether anything in the way of "evidence" will be submitted to back up Messrs. Bradley and Laffoon's "letter of protest." No "affidavits" have shown up yet. But no fear is felt that the vote of Hopkins will be disturbed.

There are many visitors in Frankfort from various quarters of the State, both Republicans and Democrats, but no unpleasantness of any kind has been manifest in any quarter.

The Latest From Frankfort.

Special to THE PRESS.
Frankfort, Dec. 6.—At 5:30 this evening the board adjourned until 7:30 tonight, after hearing two speeches on each side, taking up all the time since 11 o'clock this morning. Tonight Judge Humphreys, for anti-Goebel side, and Judge Hargis, for Goebel, what is heard. Hargis wants two hours and a half to talk about Louisville affidavits, and to furnish the argument. The Senate Chamber has been used today, and was crowded all day, perfect order being manifested. Green and Harrison counties were tabulated this morning. The Republican attorneys' work—drawing objection to the other nine counties passed—will not be counted until argument is closed and the board decides whether they can go behind the returns. Arguments have been up on this point, bringing incidentally counties affected. Only the bare, bold unfounded letter of protest from Hopkins has been produced. No affidavits promised have been shown and Hopkins not in list of counties submitted by Goebel attorneys as objected. Capt. Ellis asked some pointed questions this afternoon that staggered Goebel's attorneys to answer to their satisfaction. The magnificent arguments made by Fairleigh and Wilson completely overshadowed the work of Goebel attorneys. The Goebel men are working hard and scheming fast but there are the best reasons now to believe that the Board will not go behind the returns, but will issue certificates to the Republican ticket elected by the voice of the people.

IS READY TO SURRENDER.

A Hong-Kong Dispatch Says that Aguineldo is Willing to Surrender to Wildman.

The inhabitants are returning with white flags, their fear of the Americans is disappearing as they learn that they will be well treated.

It is impossible to get the insurgents to fight. They are retreating to the mountains, and no more organized resistance is expected. The artillery wagons are being used for packing. Water buffaloes are also being used for this purpose.

Aguineldo's Mother Desires Peace.

New York, Dec. 6.—A dispatch to the Herald from Manila says: Aguineldo's mother says she desires nothing but peace. She is glad from the bottom of her heart that the insurrection is near an end.

Aguineldo, she says, is not sufficiently civilized to keep from being misled by bad counsel from his ministers and congress, a majority of whom constantly declared for war against Aguineldo's personal wishes to the contrary.

Gratified at Kind Treatment.

She is immensely gratified at the kind treatment of herself and Aguineldo by the Americans. She believed they would be shot, and tried to keep the identity of her grandson concealed. Aguineldo's mother says that the death of his baby, recently born, was due to falling from a nurse's arms, and was not, as has been reported, the result of exposure during the retreat of the Philippines. She adds that the women and officers' families are suffering fearful privations and hardships. She declares she does not know Aguineldo's present whereabouts nor his ultimate destination.

SENATOR HAYWARD IS DEAD.

Nebraska's New Senator-Elect Died Without Having Seen His State to Take His Seat.

Nebraska City, Neb., Dec. 5.—Senator Hayward died at 6:20 a. m.

United States Senator Monroe L. Hayward was 59 years old and had lived in Nebraska City for 32 years. Although a lawyer by profession, he made his wealth largely through investments in lands in Nebraska and elsewhere. He was elected to the United States senate by his first appearance in national politics. He was defeated for governor by Poynter, two years ago, reducing the fusion majority from 16,000 to 3,000. When the last legislature was found to be republican, Mr. Hayward announced his candidacy for the United States senate, and the fight which followed was one of the bitterest in the history of the state. The long-drawn-out election deadlock finally resulted in his election, but soon afterwards he was stricken with paralysis while addressing a political meeting.

Senator Hayward was a veteran of the civil war, serving in the Twenty-second regiment of New York volunteers and later in the Fifth cavalry. He married Miss Jennie Pelton, of Putnam county, N. Y., in 1870 and his widow and two sons survive him.

PLACED IN A NUTSHELL.

A Bary Mena Synopsis of What is Contained by the President's Annual Message to Congress.

Following is a synopsis of the president's message sent to congress on the 31st inst. The full document is 23,000 words long:

The country has been unusually prosperous for the last two years. The merchant marine should be strengthened. The policy of peace and on friendly terms with all foreign nations.

Construction of the isthmian canal is urgent as an immediate importance. Additional space has been allotted to American exhibits at the Paris exposition.

Relations with Germany are most cordial. There exists a generous commercial rivalry. The American boundary question is still unsettled.

America would have been glad to have aided in adjusting the differences between British and Russia. Our position is strictly neutral.

Federal courts should have jurisdiction in cases similar to the Italian Prigioni. A cable line to Manila is deemed a necessary project.

Control of Samoa has been settled satisfactorily to the United States. Friendly relations have been renewed with Spain.

The United States has not paid our just claims. Commercial union of the American Republics is a project of the future.

There has been no departure from our policy of non-interference in the affairs of other nations. The men who fought in the Philippines are to be rewarded.

Repeal of the clause limiting the price of armor plate to $300 a ton is recommended.

The courts must be upheld and mob violence checked.

The limitation of the civil service has been approved.

Concerning the Philippines, Cuba, Porto Rico, and the Hawaiian Islands, which constitute the United States, the president's recommendations are in substance as follows:

The islands of the Philippines rest with Congress. The islands are ours and can be abandoned. A special form of government is not recommended.

The country's pledge in reference to Cuba must be kept.

The interests of our citizens in Cuba have not been neglected. Our trade with Cuba has continued to grow. American commercial rights have been maintained.

Confidence of the gold standard and limitation of the gold holdings should be maintained.

Trusts are justly provoking public opinion, and competition and anti-trust laws are needed.

The District of Columbia centennial, the proposed memorial bridge over the Potomac, and the centennial of the signing of the Declaration of Independence are to be commemorated.

The president concludes by presenting to congress a new history and the grave responsibilities involved.

Not the First.

The fierce assault made upon Admiral Dewey for deciding away the gift presented to him by a lot of enthusiasts was all out of proportion to the offense. Dewey is just as great as he ever was, his place in history is fixed. He is not the first man that let his admiration for a woman run away with his judgment, and neither any war ability will insure against error at that. —Covington, "Temu," London.

MUNRO HAD GOOD NERVE.

The Surrender of Gen. Conon and Eight Hundred Filipinos to Fifty Americans.

LIEUT. MONROE PLAYED BLUFF AND WON.

One of the Best Pieces of Work Done During the Entire Philippine War—Seventy Spanish Prisoners and Some American Soldiers—Arms and Property Captured.

New York, Dec. 3.—A dispatch to the Herald from Manila says: The surrender of Gen. Conon and 800 insurgents at Bayambang, to Lieut. James E. Munro, of the Fourth cavalry, was the result of a remarkable display of courage and "bluff" on the part of the American officer.

Lieut. Munro had only 50 men with him, and all possible reinforcements were far in his rear. He communicated by telegraph with the insurgent leader, stating that he was ready to give up Bayambang at once with a large force unless he received the unconditional surrender of the rebels.

The lieutenant wired south for reinforcements, but 24 hours before they reached him he went to Bayambang with his little escort of half a hundred men and Gen. Conon surrendered to him.

It Was a Successful Bluff.

Munro and 50 men of the Fourth cavalry of the Filipino general, Conon, with 800 Americans and men with rifles, several American and 70 Spanish prisoners at Bayambang, Province of Nueva Vizcaya, was a successful bluff. Lieut. Munro tapped the rebel wire, telegraphed to Conon that he was advancing with a large force and demanded his surrender. After negotiations, Conon consented to capitulate to a "superior force" whereupon Lieut. Munro telegraphed that he would enter the town with a small guard and receive the garrison's surrender. He captured the whole Filipino force and secured their arms, the rebels supposing Munro had an army behind him.

In the house David B. Henderson, of Iowa, was elected speaker, and inducted into office. A SURE CURE FOR COUGHS.

Twenty Five Years' Constant Use Without a Failure.

The first indication of cough is hoarseness, and in a child subject to that disease it may be taken as a sure sign of the approach of an attack. Following this hoarseness is a peculiar rough cough. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the coughy cough appears, it will prevent the attack. It is used in many thousands of homes in this broad land and never disappoints the anxious mother. We have yet to learn of a single instance in which it has not proved effective. No other preparation can show such a record of twenty-five years' constant use without a failure. For sale by St. Bernard Drugstore, Earlington; Ben T. Robinson, Mortons Gap, Geo. King, St. Charles.

Teachers Association.

The Second Congressional Teachers' meeting at Henderson, last Friday and Saturday, was a successful one. Quite a number of teachers were present and took part in the exercises. The papers and addresses were able and instructive. Henderson did herself credit in the splendid way in which she entertained the visitors. The next meeting of the association will be at Morgantown, next November. Messrs. Sallie Ford and Minnie Bourland, of this place attended the association and took part in the exercises. Miss Ford was elected Treasurer of the association.

His Life Was Saved.

Mr. J. E. Lilly, a prominent citizen of Hamilton, Mo., lately had a wonderful deliverance from a frightful death. In telling of it he says: "I was taken with Typhoid Fever that ran into Pneumonia. My lungs became inflamed and I was so weak I couldn't even sit up in bed. Nothing helped me. I was expected to soon die of Consumption, when I heard of Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle gave great relief. I continued to use it, and now am well and strong. I can't say too much in its praise." The New Discovery is the surest and quickest cure in the world for all Throat and Lung Trouble. Regular sizes 50 cents and $1.00. Trial bottles free at St. Bernard Drugstore; every bottle guaranteed.

The Christian Man's Life.

A Christian man's life is laid in the bloom of time to a pattern which he does not see, but God does. On one side of the loom is sorrow, and on the other is joy, and the shuttle, struck alternately by each, flies back and forth, carrying the thread, which is white or black as the pattern needs. And in the end, when God shall lift up the finished garment, and all its changing hues shall glance out, it will then appear that the deep and dark colors were as needed to feintly set the bright and high colors.—Henry Ward Beecher.

To Clean Flattings.

Four things can be used to clean flattings; salt and soda have been used, but experience has taught that the best way is to have the flattings thoroughly swept, and then go over with a solution of warm water with Gold Dust Washing Powder dissolved in it; it is best to use a wooden cloth, a tablespoonful of Gold Dust Washing Powder to a quart of water is the proportion; wring the cloth almost dry and rub quickly, but do not use too much water; get dirty, change it for fresh; follow the wet cloth with a dry one. This cleans perfectly.

A Good Paper.

Messrs. W. M. and C. T. Likens are starting off well with their new paper, the Vindicator, at Owensboro. They are getting up a good paper and one that is calculated to accomplish much good for the prohibition cause. They are experienced newspaper men and capable of getting up a creditable paper.

A Powder Mill Explosion.

Removes everything in sight; so do drastic mineral pills, but both are mighty dangerous. Don't dally with the delicate machinery of your body with calomel, croton oil or aloes pills, when Dr. King's New Life Pills, which are gentle as a summer breeze, do the work perfectly. Cures Headache, Constipation. Only 25c. at St. Bernard Drugstore.

NATURE STUDY.

Interesting Paper Written by Miss Sallie Ford, and Read at Henderson

At the District Teachers' Association, Which Met There Friday and Saturday.

Emerson has very vitally said that "The question of the utilitarian is always, 'What is it good for?' a question that would abolish the rose and establish the cabbage." But this study it seems to me combines both the qualities of the rose and the cabbage, i. e., both beauty and usefulness.

Let us first consider Nature Study from its utilitarian standpoint—'What is it good for?' Does it not develop and train the powers of observation and reason, of thought, the analytical sense and the judgment? Does it not train the eye to see, the ear to hear and educate the sense of touch? Does it not develop taste and a nice discrimination in color? Are these powers to be despised?

An amusing account of his first lesson, under the great Agassiz, is given by one of his pupils in which he describes himself as being lost for hours with a lone fish and microscope, but he states that afterwards he had reason to bless the wisdom that taught him to look and discover for himself. Was there any one who could better have told him about the object?

What a power of seeing must Froebel have possessed to have made his wonderful discovery that all forms which the human mind has ever known, or of which it can conceive, are derived from the three elementary forms of the sphere, cube and cylinder!

The wisest and ablest of men have drawn their wisdom and inspiration from Nature. It was said of Solomon that "the spoke of trees, from the cedar tree that is in Lebanon even unto the hyssop that springeth out of the wall; he spoke also of beasts and of fowl and of creeping things and of fishes."

In the greatest subjective poem ever written we hear Job say: "Ask now the beasts and they shall teach thee; and the fowls of the air and they shall tell thee, and the fishes of the sea shall declare unto thee."

What spiritual teachings did the God-man draw from the lilies of the field, the fowls of the air, from seed time and harvest!

What a part Nature has in the writings of so many whom the world calls great! Withdraw every reference to her from the writings of Ruskin and what is left? Have they not found as one of the greatest lines said:

"Sermons in stones, books in the running brooks
And good in everything."

Have you read that prose-poem "Kentucky Cardinal"? What an intimate and loving acquaintance with and appreciation of Nature is shown. We feel that the story must live because of the tender and beautiful insight into Nature it reveals.

What man of understanding and largeness of heart can fail to learn spiritual lessons from the miracles of night and day, sun and rain, spring time and harvest and of plant life and animal life?

In the story of the atheist prisoner converted to faith in God by a flower, an exaggerated fancy? What can concentrate his mind on the growth of a plant and feel that the day of miracles is past?

A pretty story is told of Emerson when he was quite an old man. On being called into the garden to see a specially beautiful rose he took off his hat to it. It was an eloquent act—a tribute from him who thought that one ray of beauty is worth all the utilities in the world. And I think he meant it as an act of reverence, too, for he was not one who could see a beautiful and fragrant flower without a glad uplifting of the heart to Him who giveth us all things richly to enjoy.

As an instance of what the study of plant life rightly and systematically conducted can do, I have read of an English clergyman who gathered the children of the village in which he lived about him once a week for lessons on Botany—teaching them their own observations. They were of a class in which the intellectual life usually receives little attention. So benefited were they by this work that they reached a plane quite beyond that occupied by people of neighboring villages of like condition. It was the province of the son-in-law of this clergyman to examine medical men for the army and he says the majority of them could not answer questions that could have been readily answered by the children of his father's school. The fault being that the observing faculties of these men had not been trained as children. It is said that "Botany is capable of doing for the observing powers of the mind what mathematics does for its reasoning powers."

Did you ever think what an advantage, for Nature study, teachers in the country have over those in the city? The plant and insect world, birds and animals are ready to hand and how interested are the little ones "communicated" as they are "by every sight and sound."

I know a little one who some weeks ago refused to go to sleep for all of "black mammy's" rocking and crooning because she was interested in the flies humming about the room. "Listen to the bugs, mammy, listen to the bugs," she would say, greatly to the annoyance of mammy, no doubt, whose ears had grown dull to such sounds. This subject is so vast and deep that I feel almost helpless before it. A few practical suggestions I will give from outlines of work obtained in a course at the Western Kentucky Normal School. Suppose we are having a lesson on birds. Ask:

1. "Who can tell on hearing a bird slang, without seeing it, what kind of a bird it is?"

2. "How many kinds of birds can you name?"
3. "What birds stay with us during the winter?"
4. "What birds go away in winter?"

Accept oral answers to these at first. Later, require written statements, either in lists of words under their proper heading, or words used in complete statements. As to which of these methods must be used the teacher must decide.

For an emergency device when leaves are on the trees, let each child draw a leaf. Let it make its first attempt with freedom. However crude the drawing may be, avoid anything that may hurt the child's sensitiveness. After a leaf has been drawn, let all who can write a composition on the leaf.

In Botany let the children study the plants themselves. Pumpkins, squash, corn, bean and pea seed are good for sprouting. Let them sprout all these seeds. Let them record them the length of time required for each. Ask them if plants will grow if sprouted in the fall? Let the children make the experiment. Encourage them to have little gardens of their own.

In our readers instead of starting on the front page and going straight through, let us choose those lessons adapted to the seasons. Take, for instance, the lesson on corn in McGuffey's Third Reader. Choose this lesson when corn is in season. Have the children bring corn and rice to the class, if possible, remembering that an object is a great stimulus to the mind. Have the first paragraph read. It reads thus:

"Few plants are more useful to man than Indian corn, or maize. No grain, except rice, is used so great an extent as an article of food. In some countries corn is almost the only food eaten by the people." Then ask:

1. Who can give names of plants?
2. What kind of plants have you mentioned?
3. What is an edible plant?
4. Name six principal food plants?
5. Who can mention other kinds of plants?
6. What plants can you see from the window?
7. Who can write the word "maize" on the board?
8. Who can mention countries in which corn is used as food?
9. Who has ever heard a song about Indian corn?
10. What kind of soil is best for corn?
11. Does corn grow best in warm or cool climates?
12. From what part of the seed will the plant start?
13. What does one do to sprout corn?

Let the children sprout some corn and bring it to school.

As to general observation work, have the children tell what they saw on the way to school. Let them keep a record of what their thermometer registers at a specified hour each day—say at noon. Also of the weather whether fair, cloudy or raining. Have them observe the length of the days, from sunrise to sunset, and discover the longest and shortest days of the year and measure their shadows at noon on these days.

Before Geography is commenced with a text book give them their work and teach them the terms used in Geography from nature—also as much as possible the various phenomena of Physical Geography from nature. There is a fine outline for such work in Frye's work on "The Child and Nature," the 'I' and 'I' that Crocker's "First Book in Geography," (pub. by Lee & Shepherd, Boston), is even better.

In lessons on the three elementary forms of the cube, sphere, and cylinder have them name those objects in nature that resemble these. This will keep their eyes open and their minds employed upon the objects around them and teach them to see, to think, analyze, judge, reason, compare. In other words it will develop the child along natural lines and as the end of all our teaching is to train the children to live completely, and live well remember that we teach them to be better men and women.

Nature, the old nurse, took
The child upon her knee,
Saying: "Here is a story book
Thy Father has written for thee:
'Come, wander with me, she said,
'And read what is untold
'And into what is still unlearned
'In the manuscripts of God.'"

And he wandered away and away
With nature, the dear old nurse,
Who sang to him night and day
The rhymes of the universe.
And whenever the way seemed long,
She would sing a more wonderful song.
Or tell a more marvellous tale.
—Longfellow to Agassiz.
